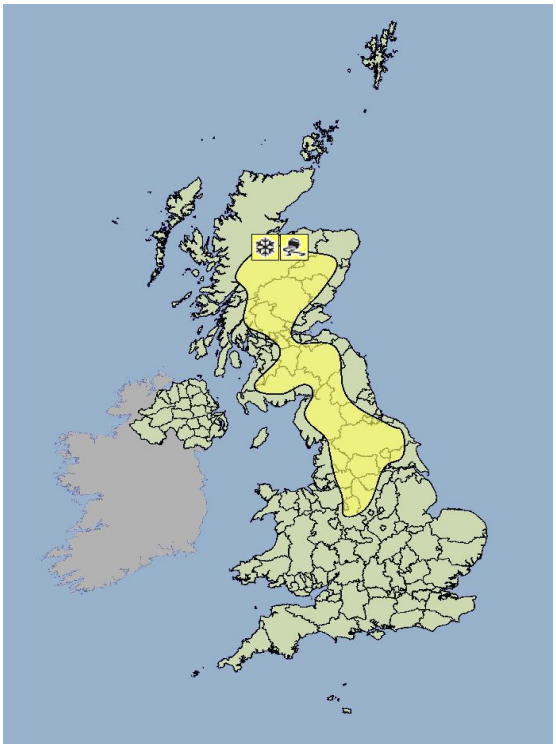
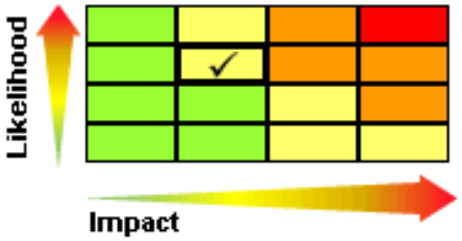
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
Amounts of fresh snow will vary considerably across the warning area. Most of the snow is expected on higher ground with 3-6 cm likely above around 200 m and perhaps 10-15 cm locally on ground above 300 m. At lower levels 1-3 cm looks more likely, with some spots escaping altogether.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Snow and Ice

Valid from 06:00 on Sun, 21st Jan 2018 until 18:00 on Sun, 21st Jan 2018

An area of snow is likely to move eastwards across parts of Scotland and northern England on Sunday. The snow is more likely to affect higher routes with lower levels only affected more locally. In addition, rain may fall onto frozen surfaces for a time, particularly across Scotland, following a very cold night.
Some roads and railways likely to be affected, with longer journey times by road, bus and train services.
Some injuries from slips and falls on icy surfaces.
Probably some icy patches on some untreated roads, pavements and cycle paths.

The snow is expected to become confined to northeast Scotland later in the day as it progressively turns to rain from the southwest.
